LEDGER

FIFTH YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., FRIDAY, JANUARY 31, 1896.

Purely Business!

The estimate of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "a certain value" and then charge a sum over his counter free gifts of advertising. The publisher of a newspaper is not to be expected to estimate business concerns. Its customers are to do so. The advertising should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Call

upon The Ledger for free notices have become so burdensome that we are forced to publish the following terms:

For Notices of Births,

excursions, visits, other public entertainments, &c., are charged, and for ordinary notices, resolutions of respect, &c., the tabbons will charge $1.00. The tabbons will charge this even though the notice will be of the irreparable rule. This, however,

Does not Include

notices of Lodge meetings or Church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Avoidance of Disputes.

Widowmakers are unpleasant. The rate for Business Locals in The Ledger is 2 cents a line, and insertion of 2 cents a line for a subsequent insertion.

A customer orders a certain number of copies of a paper, and gets all about it. The notice runs for two months, and the bill is still there. He finds out there is a "kick" and a controversy followed, and he wants to obviate this trouble, no "bill for bill" notices will be accepted, and he has a definite agreement at the outset, and the settlement will be pleasant.

It is all better for publication must be handed in before 6 o'clock to the morning of each day.

need a great deal of jewelry, but what he does wear ought to be good. It is the most extravagant sort of economy to pay too little for such things. If a man buys good buttons and studs the question is settled for sometime to come.

THREE KILLED,

Four May Die, and Twenty Others More or Less Injured.

This is the Result of a Boiler Explosion in a Hollidaysburg Mill.

Cause of the Accident a Mystery.—The Boiler Had Not Recently Been Repaired and Test—A Force of the Hollidaysburg Mill Completely Wrecked.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Jan. 31.—The most disastrous affair that has happened in this section for years occurred here yesterday when a boiler exploded in a large rolling mill of the Hollidaysburg Iron and Nail Co. Three persons were killed, four may die, and twenty others are more or less injured.

When the accident occurred there were a hundred men at work at the mill.

A 30-foot cylinder boiler exploded without any warning, spreading death and ruin in its course. The report of the explosion was heard all over the town, and several blocks away houses were shaken and dishes were rattled on the breakfast tables.

In a short time a large crowd of people were collected, to see cause of the explosion and mystery.

Engel Kramer was standing by his furnace at the time of the accident. He says the boiler had 100 pounds of steam on. He was not hurt. The boiler had been repaired and tested about thirty days ago. It is thought there was no water in the boiler.

The boiler was placed over puddling furnaces and heated from their base. It exploded when it was being heated and went through the floor, bursting on the entire end of the mill, and was then hurled about 300 feet. It crushed through the mill roof, throwing the beams and iron in all directions, completely destroying that part of the plant. As the steam escaped from the explosion the furnaces were demolished and stacks thrown down. A number of puddlers were buried in the ruins.

The boiler was 300 feet long and 10 inches in diameter. The steam and smoke cleared away the search for the victims beneath the ruins was begun.

Lane, the bricklayer, was the first found. He was buried in the iron, under the bricks and near an unexploded boiler, crushed to death. Cornelia Evans was found lying near the shears of her head torn off. It is supposed he was buried in the iron.

As the smoke cleared away the explosion occurred for material for stocking the furnace.

Merrill Tress was found near a furnace with his skull fractured and burned in a horrible condition. Samuel Kephart, Sammie Marie, Robert Marie, Finley Ferguson and John Woerner were found in front of their furnaces covered with debris, where they had been stuck down. The other injured ones were able to get out of the mill unscathed.

Just before the explosion a trap was seen cooking a piece of meat in front of one of the furnaces and it is supposed that he had picked up a bill under the ruins, as he had not been seen since the accident. The loss to the company is about $5,000, partly covered by insurance.
